Applying online

The department encourages applicants and their sponsors to apply online. For information on how to apply online go to the department's website www.immi.gov.au/e_visa/

If your relative has lodged their visa application online you must complete your sponsorship online.

Integrity of application

The department is committed to maintaining the integrity of the visa and citizenship programs. Please be aware that if you provide us with fraudulent documents or claims, this may result in processing delays and possibly your application being refused.

Who is eligible to sponsor a relative?

To sponsor an applicant for a GSM visa you must be:

- an Australian citizen, permanent resident or eligible New Zealand citizen;
- aged 18 years or over; and
- usually resident in Australia.

If you are related to the partner of the main applicant, your relative must be included in the visa application as a visa applicant.

'Partner' means your spouse or de facto partner (including same-sex partners).

Sponsoring a Skilled – Sponsored visa applicant

If you are sponsoring your relative for a Skilled – Sponsored (subclass 176 or 886) visa you must be related to the main applicant or their partner in one of the following ways:

- a parent or step-parent;
- a child or a step-child, who is not a dependent child of the sponsor;
- a brother or sister, or a step-brother or step-sister;
- an aunt or uncle, or a step-aunt or step-uncle;
- a nephew or niece, or a step-nephew or step-niece.

Your sponsorship undertaking

The undertaking you must sign in Part G Sponsorship undertaking of this form states that you agree to provide adequate accommodation and financial assistance as required to meet your relative's reasonable living needs during their first 2 years in Australia (following grant of the visa if applying in Australia or 2 years from the date of arrival). This includes providing financial and other support, such as child care, that will enable your relatives to attend appropriate English language classes. By signing the undertaking, you also agree to provide information and advice to help your relative settle in Australia. This information and advice should include telling your relative about employment in Australia.

Your relative and their partner and adult dependants should assess their own employment prospects in Australia, whether or not they intend to work immediately on arrival.

It is important that your relative, their partner and their adult dependants understand that a good standard of spoken and written English is essential if they want to work in Australia. Without these skills, it will be very difficult for them to gain employment at a level equal to their job skills and qualifications.

What documents do you need?

The office processing your sponsorship application will need proof of your relationship to your relative.

Copies of documents need to be certified as true copies of the original by a justice of the peace, commissioner for declarations or a person authorised to witness statutory declarations. Alternatively, a registered migration agent can certify the documents.

It will help your relative's application if they have certified copies of any documents that confirm the relationship. For example, if you are sponsoring your brother or sister, your relative should send a certified copy of your full birth certificate showing details of your parents.

Your relative may wish to provide a diagram of your family relationship.

If you are sponsoring your relative for a Skilled – Regional Sponsored (subclass 475 or 487) visa, your relative will also need to provide evidence that you are usually resident in a designated area of Australia. There is a table in Part D of this form that will help your relative work out if they have enough evidence to satisfy the decision makers that you meet this requirement.

If you have changed your name since birth (eg. through marriage), your relative should also provide evidence of this.

Your relative will also need to send evidence of your Australian citizenship or permanent resident status in Australia or proof that you are an eligible New Zealand citizen*.

A certified copy of your citizenship certificate or, if Australian-born, a full certified copy of your birth certificate would be evidence of your Australian citizenship. If you are unsure about the documents needed to do this, contact the nearest Australian overseas mission or office of the department in Australia.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION FOR ALL SPONSORS

Two-year wait for social security payments

New migrants to Australia have to wait 2 years after gaining permanent residency before they can get most social security payments, including unemployment benefits, sickness allowance, Austudy income support payments for students and a number of other payments. The two-year wait starts from the date of arrival in Australia or the date of grant of a permanent visa, whichever is the later. It is therefore very important that you understand that migrants are expected to support themselves and their immediate family members from their own resources and from the support they receive from sponsors.

Sponsors should talk to their relatives about the costs of living in Australia and work out how much assistance their relatives might need. Sponsors should think carefully about whether they are able and willing to provide this support before undertaking the sponsorship.

Information on services to assist newly arrived migrants with settling in Australia is also available on the department's 'Settling in Australia' website www.immi.gov.au/living-in-australia/

Options for receiving written communications

You may authorise another person to receive all communications, both written and electronic, about your application with the department. You will be taken to have received any documents sent to that person as if they had been sent to you.

To do this you will need to complete Part F Options for receiving written communications and form 956 Appointment of a migration agent or exempt agent or other authorised recipient. For an explanation of what a migration agent or exempt agent or authorised recipient can do please read the sections below.

To change or end the appointment of your migration agent or exempt agent or authorised recipient you must promptly advise the department in writing. You can do this by using form 956 Appointment of a migration agent or exempt agent or other authorised recipient.

* An eligible New Zealand citizen is a New Zealand citizen who: held a Special Category Visa (SCV) on 26 February 2001; or held a SCV for at least one year in the 2 years preceding that date; or has a certificate, issued under the Social Security Act 1991, that states that the citizen was, for the purpose of the Act, residing in Australia on a particular date and who would have met certain health and character requirements on last entry to Australia.

Authorised recipient information

An authorised recipient is someone you appoint to receive written communications about your application with the department.

All written communication about your application will be sent to your authorised recipient, unless you indicate that you wish to have health and/or character information sent directly to you.

The department will communicate with the most recently appointed authorised recipient as you may only appoint one authorised recipient at any time for a particular application.

Migration agent information

A migration agent is someone who can:

- advise you on the visa that may best suit you;
- tell you the documents you need to submit with your application;
- help you fill in the application and submit it;
- communicate with the department on your behalf.

If you appoint a migration agent, the department will assume that your migration agent will be your authorised recipient, unless you indicate otherwise.

Your migration agent will be the person with whom the department will discuss your application and from whom it will seek further information when required.

You are not required to use a migration agent. However, if you use a migration agent, the department encourages you to use a registered migration agent. Registered agents are bound by the Migration Agents Code of Conduct, which requires them to act professionally in their clients' lawful best interests.

Immigration assistance

A person gives immigration assistance to you if he or she uses, or claims to use, his or her knowledge or experience in migration procedure to assist you with your visa application, request for ministerial intervention, cancellation review application, sponsorship or nomination.

In Australia a person may only lawfully give immigration assistance if he or she is a registered migration agent or is exempt from being registered. Only registered migration agents may receive a fee or reward for providing immigration assistance.

If an unregistered person in Australia, who is not exempt from registration, gives you immigration assistance they are committing a criminal offence and may be prosecuted.

Migration agents in Australia

Migration agents in Australia must be registered with the Migration Agents Registration Authority (MARA) unless they are exempt from registration.

Migration agents outside Australia

Migration agents who operate outside Australia do not have to be registered. The department may give some overseas agents an ID number. This number does not mean that they are registered.

Note: Some Australian registered migration agents operate overseas.

Exempt agents

The following people do not have to be a registered migration agent in order to provide immigration assistance, but they must not charge a fee for their service:

- a close family member (spouse, de facto partner, child, parent, brother or sister);
- a sponsor or nominator for this visa application;
- a member of parliament or their staff;
- an official whose duties include providing immigration assistance (eg. a Legal Aid provider);
- a member of a diplomatic mission, consular post or international organisation.

Further information on migration agents

Information on migration agents, including a list of registered migration agents, is available on the Migration Agents Registration Authority (MARA) website www.themara.com.au

You can also access information about migration agents on the department's website www.immi.gov.au

Consent to communicate electronically

The department may use a range of means to communicate with you. However, electronic means such as fax or e-mail will only be used if you indicate your agreement to receiving communication in this way. The department may also contact people by mail, telephone or in person. However, if you have an e-mail address, this may speed up communication.

To process your application, the department may need to communicate with you about sensitive information, for example, health, police checks, financial viability and personal relationships. Electronic communications, unless adequately encrypted, are not secure and may be viewed by others or interfered with. If you agree to the department communicating with you by electronic means, the details you provide will only be used by the department for the purpose for which you have provided them, unless there is a legal obligation or necessity to use them for another purpose, or you have consented to use for another purpose. They will not be added to any mailing list.

The Australian Government accepts no responsibility for the security or integrity of any information sent to the department over the internet or by other electronic means.

If you authorise another person to receive documents on your behalf and they wish to be contacted electronically, their signature is required on the form to indicate their consent to this form of communication.
