Introduction

Welcome to Australia and in particular to Victoria.

The Australian, State, Territory and Local Governments of Australia, together with non-government agencies, provide Australian residents with a wide range of services. This booklet will give you a basic idea of the sort of services and assistance that is available, and where you can go to ask for advice. Refugee and humanitarian entrants should also refer to information supplied specifically for them by the Department of Immigration and Citizenship (DIAC).

This booklet is targeted at all prospective and newly arrived migrants to Australia with a particular focus on permanent migrants. It will always be difficult to make all information in the booklet relevant to all readers. It is important to note that some permanent migrants and most temporary visa holders may not be eligible for all services.

Please take the time to read this booklet carefully. We believe you will find it useful as you begin your new life in Australia. You should use the most recent edition, available from many settlement service providers and via the 'Living in Australia' web pages www.immi.gov.au/living-in-australia. We suggest you read Chapters 1– 4 first. They deal with issues of particular concern to you during your first weeks.

The issues you will face as you begin your new life in Australia are complex and changing. There will be challenges, and also rewards. In the end, your success will depend on your own efforts, as well as the goodwill of those willing to help you. Welcome and good luck!

Edition date: 1st November 2007.

Phone numbers: Telephone numbers beginning with 1800 are free calls if you ring from a private telephone and cost the same as a local call if you ring from a payphone. Numbers beginning 13 or 1300 are charged at local call rates. Some 1300 and 1800 numbers can be used only from outside the capital city. Mobile phone rates apply to calls from mobile phones.

For numbers not beginning 13, 1300 or 1800: If ringing from outside Australia, dial the Australia prefix 61, then the area code without the 0, then the number. If ringing from within Australia but outside the state or territory, dial the area code, and then the number.

Disclaimer: While the Department of Immigration and Citizenship (the Department) and its contributors have attempted to ensure that the material in this booklet is accurate at the time of release, the booklet covers a range of matters that are subject to regular change. No liability for negligence or otherwise is assumed by the Department or its contributors should anyone suffer a loss or damage as a result of relying on the information given in the booklet.

What to do soon after arrival

Below is a list of 8 important things you should do as soon as possible after arriving in Australia. Tick them off as you do them.

YOUR CHECKLIST

| | ✓ |
| A. Apply for a Tax File Number | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| B. Register with Medicare | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| C. Open a bank account | <input type="checkbox"/> |

| G. Enrol your children in a school | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| H. Apply for a driver's licence | <input type="checkbox"/> |

See Chapter 2, Help with English for information about interpreting services and about having documents translated.

See Chapter 4, Where to go for help for information about organisations that can help you with settling issues.

A. Apply for a Tax File Number

Do this first. To receive an income in Australia, you need a Tax File Number (TFN). Income includes wages or salary from a job, payments from the government, and money earned from investments including interest on savings accounts.

HOW TO APPLY FOR A TAX FILE NUMBER

In Australia, you can telephone the Australian Taxation Office (ATO) and have an application form sent to you. Alternatively, you can apply for a TFN at the ATO website 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Forms are also available from ATO or Centrelink shopfronts which are listed in the White Pages telephone book.

See Chapter 7, Employment for more information on taxation.

B. Register with Medicare and consider taking out private health insurance

The Australian Government provides help with medical expenses through a scheme called Medicare. The government also subsidises the cost of most medicine under the Pharmaceutical Benefits Scheme (PBS). Medicare and the PBS are administered by Medicare Australia.

You may be eligible to join Medicare and gain immediate access to health care services and programmes. These include free public hospital care, help with the cost of out-of-hospital care, and subsidised medicines.

Medicare has an Information Kit which is translated into 18 different languages. It explains Medicare and other government health services and the eligibility requirements for benefits and payments. Remember to ask for it when you visit your local Medicare office, Migrant Resource Centre or go to the website.

HOW TO ENROL WITH MEDICARE

To enrol in Medicare, you should go to a Medicare office 7 to 10 days after your arrival in Australia and bring your passport, travel documents and permanent visa. If all registration requirements are met, you will be advised of your Medicare card number and your card will be posted to you about 3 weeks later. In most cases you will pay for medical care then receive a refund for some of the payment. If you need to see a doctor urgently, you can register with Medicare without waiting 7 to 10 days and ask for an interim number.

Emergency treatment is available on a 24 hour basis at the 'Casualty' or 'Emergency' departments of public hospitals.

In addition to Medicare there are also many different private health insurance funds that offer options that cover services not covered by Medicare eg. dental care, optical care, ambulance. To find a suitable private health insurance fund, look under 'Private health insurance' in the Yellow Pages telephone directory.

For more information about private health insurance, see Chapter 11, The health system.

C. Open a bank account

In Australia, people keep their money in a bank, building society or credit union. Most income including salary and wages and government benefits is paid directly into an account. Australians use bankcards and credit cards for many purposes.

It is advisable to open a bank, building society or credit union account within 6 weeks of your arrival, as you usually need only your passport as identification. After 6 weeks you will need additional identification to open an account, and you may have difficulty if you don't have many documents. Advise your bank of your Tax File Number (TFN) to avoid higher rates of taxation on interest earned.

For further information on opening a bank account go to the website below.

Smarter Banking – make the most of your money www.bankers.asn.au

D. Register with Centrelink

Help with job seeking, social security payments and other assistance is provided through the government agency called Centrelink. Newly arrived residents can register with Centrelink to get help with looking for work, having overseas skills recognised, and accessing relevant courses. Centrelink also has Tax File Number application forms and can assist you to lodge your application with the Tax Office, so that access to any payments is not delayed.

If you have children, you may be eligible for government-funded Family Assistance payments to help with the cost of raising them.

For more information see Chapter 2, Help with English; Chapter 7, Employment; and Chapter 8, Social security.

E. Contact the Health Undertaking Service

If you signed a Health Undertaking (Form 815) at the request of a Department of Immigration and Citizenship (DIAC) overseas post, you must ring the Health Undertaking Service after you arrive in Australia.

Once you contact the Health Undertaking Service, they will advise you of the nearest Health Authority Clinic where you can have your follow-up medical checks.

F. Register for English classes

Communicating in English is very important and the key to your successful settlement.

English language courses for new arrivals in Australia are provided under the Adult Migrant English Programme (AMEP). As a new resident, you may be entitled to receive free English language tuition of up to 510 hours (additional hours may be available to humanitarian entrants). The AMEP offers a number of learning options to suit a range of circumstances. Register as soon as possible or you could lose your entitlement to classes. For more information, see Chapter 2, Help with English.

G. Enrol your children in a school

Under Australian law, children between the ages of 5 and 15 years must attend school. You should enrol your children in a school as soon as possible. For more information see Chapter 10, Education and child care.

H. Apply for a driver's licence

If you are a permanent resident visa holder and have a current driver's licence from another country, in English or with an official translation from an acceptable source, you are allowed to drive for your first 3 months after arrival. After that, if you want to drive, you will need to have the appropriate Australian driver's licence. This will usually require you to pass a knowledge test, a practical driving test, and an eyesight test. In Australia, driver's licences are issued by state and territory governments.

If you do not hold a licence from another country you will need to pass a Driver Knowledge Test to get a learner's permit.

Translating and interpreting services

INTERPRETING

If you cannot speak or understand English and you need to talk to a government agency, ask them to contact a telephone interpreter to help you to communicate with the agency. Normally a telephone interpreter will be provided but, if necessary, government agencies can arrange for an interpreter to be present in person. The government agency should pay for the cost of the interpreter. Make sure that you check the office hours of the government agency you wish to speak to before calling.

If you have problems understanding government agencies' automated telephone systems, then ring the Translating and Interpreting Service (TIS) directly and they will help you.

TIS has interpreters in most languages. You can ring the TIS telephone interpreting service, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week for the cost of a local call.

TRANSLATION OF YOUR IMPORTANT DOCUMENTS

A summary/extract translation into English of certain documents which are necessary for your settlement in Australia may be provided free of charge by the Department of Immigration and Citizenship (DIAC). These documents might include birth and marriage certificates, driver's licence, educational qualifications and employment references.

If you want to seek any free translations, you must be a permanent resident or Australian citizen and you must request them within 2 years of your arrival or grant of permanent residence. You should lodge your request for translation through an Adult Migrant English Programme (AMEP) service provider (see below).

The translation of other documents can be arranged through accredited translators on a fee-for-service basis. For a list of accredited translators in your language, visit the National Accreditation Authority for Translators and Interpreters (NAATI) website.

TIS welcomes enquiries from Australian permanent residents and citizens who are interested in becoming contract interpreters, providing interpreting services to members of the Australian community who speak languages other than English. If you have good bilingual skills in English and another language, you may consider becoming a contract interpreter with TIS. For further details contact TIS on 131 450 regarding interpreter recruitment and work conditions.

Learning English for adults

ADULT MIGRANT ENGLISH PROGRAMME (AMEP)

You may be eligible for free English language tuition through the Adult Migrant English Programme (AMEP). Most permanent adult migrants are eligible for up to 510 hours of tuition. Refugee and humanitarian entrants under 25 years of age with low levels of schooling may be eligible for up to 910 hours of English language tuition, while those over 25 years of age may be eligible for up to 610 hours of tuition.

To find out if you are eligible and to register for the AMEP you should contact your local AMEP service provider (details are listed below).

You must register within 3 months of arriving in Australia or gaining permanent residence, and begin classes within 1 year, or you will risk losing your entitlement. You may be able to delay starting classes once you are registered if you need to attend to family, work or other responsibilities first. You should try to begin AMEP classes as soon possible, as they will help you to learn the basic English you need to participate fully as part of the Australian community.

Your local AMEP service provider can help you in many ways. They can recommend the best way for you to learn English, and arrange free childcare for your under-school-age children while you attend classes. They can seek approval for you to defer the start of your classes if you need to for family or work reasons. Your service provider will advise you which course will best fit your needs. They will do this based on your work and family circumstances and your current level of English. They can also help you plan for further study.

The AMEP offers a range of learning options. There are full-time or part-time classes at various venues and locations including rural and regional areas. You can also study from home, through a distance learning course.

Emergency services

In an emergency, telephone 000 for:

- Police
- Ambulance
- Fire Brigade

Calls to 000 (triple zero) are free. Be prepared to provide your name, address and telephone number (if you have one), and the type of service you need.

If you cannot speak English, you must firstly tell the operator what kind of help you need (simply say: “Police”, “Ambulance” or “Fire”), and then say your language. You will be connected to the Translating and Interpreting Service (TIS) directly, so do not hang up. The TIS interpreter will then help the police, fire or ambulance service to obtain your address and other details.

Police

In an emergency, telephone 000 and ask for the “Police”.

For non-urgent matters, ring 000 or your local police station. Their numbers are listed under ‘Police stations’ in the White Pages telephone directory. There is no charge for police services.

Police in Australia are not connected to the military forces and do not play a part in politics. They aim to protect life and property in the community, prevent and detect crime, and preserve peace. The police may intervene in family issues where there is a domestic dispute or concern about physical, sexual or psychological abuse.

Ambulance

If you need an ambulance, telephone 000 and ask for an “Ambulance”. Ambulances provide emergency transport to hospital and immediate medical attention. Remember, DO NOT HANG UP the telephone if you do not speak English – say your language and an interpreter will assist you with your call.

In some states and territories, the ambulance service may be free or discounted to people who get an Australian Government pension or who have a Health Care Card (given by Centrelink to people assessed as low income earners). It can be expensive if you do not have these benefits, so you may wish to become an ambulance member or join a private health insurance fund that covers the cost. See Chapter 11, The health system.

In Victoria the Ambulance is not a free service unless you have a government pension or a Health Care Card (issued by Centrelink to people assessed as low income earners). Ambulance attendance and transport can be expensive if you do not have these benefits, so you may wish to become an ambulance member or join a private health insurance fund which covers the cost. (See Chapter 11, The health system.) The Metropolitan Ambulance Service recommends you become an Ambulance Victoria Member for an annual fee of $60.00 for single people or $120.00 for families. This provides full ambulance cover across Australia.

Collect a membership application form at Australia Post and join over the counter or contact:

Fire

In an emergency, telephone 000 and ask for the “Fire Brigade”. The fire brigade puts out fires, rescues people from burning buildings and also assists in situations where gas or chemicals become a danger. In non-urgent cases, you can use the telephone number listed under ‘Fire brigades’ in the White Pages telephone directory.

Other emergency numbers

Useful emergency telephone numbers are listed at the front of your local White Pages telephone directory. They include:

LOANS AND CREDIT

A loan or credit is when you borrow money and agree to pay it back at a later date with an additional charge, known as interest. Some of the different types of loans are personal loans, home loans, credit cards and overdrafts. The cost of a loan will vary greatly depending on the type of loan, the lender, how long you take to pay it back, the interest rate and fees and charges. It is important that you do not undertake a loan or use your credit card if you cannot afford to repay it.

If you find it hard to repay your loan because you get sick or lose your job, you can ask to have your repayments changed. If you need help contact:

If you own a car it is compulsory to have third party insurance to cover you if you injure another person in an accident. You may also like to take out comprehensive car insurance which provides wider insurance cover.

Australian customs and law

Knowing and understanding Australian customs and laws will help you to adjust to life in the Australian community.

Australia is a tolerant, diverse society with people from many different cultures and ethnic backgrounds. Australians come from all corners of the world. About 43 per cent of Australians were born overseas or have a parent who was. Although English is the national language, there are around 200 languages spoken in Australia. Australians also practise a wide variety of religions.

In Australia, everyone is free to express and maintain their cultural and religious traditions, within the law, and participate and belong as an Australian. At first, you may not be used to such diversity. However if you are open and respectful towards people, ideas and traditions you are likely to fit in and be successful in your new life.

Responsibilities and values

The freedom and equality we enjoy in Australia depend on everyone fulfilling their responsibilities. We expect you to be loyal to Australia, and support our democratic way of life and its underlying values. These values include respect for the law, the freedom and dignity of each person and the equality of men and women, and tolerance, fairness and compassion for those in need.

Equality and anti-discrimination

You have the right to be respected and to have your needs considered as fairly as everyone else. Similarly, you should respect other people, whether they were born in Australia or, like you, migrated here.

Under the Anti-Discrimination Act, no person should be treated less favourably than others because of their age, race, country of origin, sex, marital status, pregnancy, political or religious beliefs, disability or sexual preference. This applies to most areas, including employment, education, accommodation, buying goods, and access to services such as doctors, banks and hotels. Men and women are equal under the law and for all other purposes.

Australia has a tradition of free speech. However, it is unlawful to insult, humiliate, offend or intimidate another person or group on the basis of their race, gender, marital status, pregnancy, or political or religious beliefs.

The Australian Government's Living in Harmony Programme promotes the Australian values described above, mutual obligation and understanding between people of different backgrounds. It also aims to address intolerance. It does this through:

- local community projects
- partnerships with national organisations
- a public information strategy, which includes Harmony Day on 21 March each year.

DOMESTIC OR FAMILY VIOLENCE

As in other countries, violence towards another person is illegal in Australia and viewed very seriously. This includes violence within the home and within marriage, otherwise known as domestic or family violence. This is behaviour by a person which may result in the victim experiencing or fearing physical, sexual or psychological abuse and damage, forced sexual relations, forced isolation or economic deprivation.

The legal age of consent, (that is, the age that the law recognises your right to agree to have sex with another person), varies from state to state in Australia. It is illegal to have sex with someone younger than the age of consent and there can be severe penalties for anyone breaking this law. In Victoria the Age of Consent is 16 years old for both men and women providing the other partner is not their carer or teacher. People aged 10-15 may legally have sex providing the other partner is not more than two years older. These laws protect younger people from exploitation.

You can find out more about the age of consent by talking to a doctor or contacting a sexual health clinic, family planning clinic or one of the organisations below:

Driving

To drive a car in Australia, you must have a driver's licence and the vehicle you are driving must be registered with the government. For information about licences and motor vehicle registration see Chapter 1, What to do soon after arrival.

Disobeying or breaking traffic laws can result in large fines, the loss of your driver's licence or even imprisonment. There are seatbelts (also called 'restraints') in all cars for adults and older children. You will require special government approved restraints for young children and babies. The law states that everyone in your car must use a seatbelt or a proper child restraint, and if you are involved in a road accident you must report it to the police immediately.

The laws are particularly strict regarding speed limits and driving after drinking alcohol. Permitted blood alcohol levels vary, depending on the state or territory, and in accordance with the class of driver's licence held. It is illegal to drink alcohol while driving. For more information contact:

Alcohol Guidelines (Australian Drug Foundation – Drug Info Clearing House)	1300 858 584
Website	www.alcohol.gov.au/guidelines

For new migrants it is also useful to know that using a mobile phone while driving is against the law, unless you do so using a 'handsfree' kit. Melbourne now has several 'toll' roads, known as CityLink and you must pay to use these roads. For more information contact:

Drugs, smoking and drinking

There are many laws about having possession of and using drugs. Breaking drug laws can lead to severe penalties. Drug laws in Australia distinguish between those who use illegal drugs and those who make a business of supplying, producing or selling them.

Smoking tobacco is prohibited in a growing number of places in Australia, including most government offices, health clinics, and workplaces. Smoking in restaurants and shopping centres is also prohibited in most states and territories. Non-smoking areas are often, but not always, indicated with a 'no smoking' sign.

It is an offence for a retailer to sell tobacco products to a 'minor' (that is, someone under 18 years of age). Supplying tobacco to a minor is also prohibited in most states and territories.

Drinking alcohol is legal in Australia but only in certain places at certain times. It is against the law for any person to sell or supply alcohol to a person under the age of 18 years (a minor). It is also against the law for a minor to drink alcohol except on private property such as a private home. Drinking alcohol is also prohibited in some public areas.

Environment

A clean environment and the protection of nature are important to Australians. It is illegal to litter, create pollution or dispose of wastes without permission. Native animals, fish, shellfish and plants are protected by law. Do not hunt, fish or collect plants or shellfish before checking whether you need a permit. In addition, there are special rules which apply to National Parks to prevent them being spoilt.

Noise

There are laws that protect Australians from excessive noise. The regulations vary across the states and territories, and also depend on whether the area is zoned for commercial, industrial or residential use. In general, neighbours are tolerant of occasional noise, but if it is frequent, excessively loud or occurs at night, a complaint may be made to the local council, the state or territory environment authority, or the police.

In Victoria, the role of the Environment Protection Authority (EPA) regarding residential noise is to provide advice. The police and your local Council can be called upon to deal directly with the problem.

EPA Information Centre 9695 2722

Animals

Australia has laws to protect animals from cruelty and neglect. It is forbidden to kill animals in the backyard. People who mistreat animals and birds can be fined or imprisoned. There are local laws on what domestic animals can be kept at home. Household pets like dogs need to be registered with the local council. Look under 'Dog' in the 'Government' section of your White Pages telephone directory.

If you get a pet you are responsible for looking after it properly including feeding it and keeping it clean. Many pets need to be vaccinated regularly and treated by a vet when they are sick or injured. Having household pets de-sexed and micro-chipped is expected in Australia and is also the responsibility of the owner. You can get more information from your local vet or the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (RSPCA).

Meeting people and communicating

When meeting someone for the first time, it is usual in Australia to shake the person's right hand with your right hand. People who do not know each other generally do not kiss or hug when meeting.

Many Australians look at the eyes of the people they are talking with, as a sign of respect and to show that they are listening. However, you should be aware that it may make some people feel uncomfortable or embarrass them.

When meeting a new person, many Australians are not comfortable being asked questions about their age, marriage, children or money.

Unless you have been introduced to someone by their first name, or unless you are asked to call them by their first name, it is usual to address them using their title and family name, (eg. Mr Wong, Ms Smith, Mrs Brown, Dr Lee). In the workplace and with friends, Australians usually call each other by their first names.

Polite behaviour

Australians usually say "please" when asking for something or for a service and usually say "thank you" when someone helps them or gives them something. Not saying please and thank you will be seen as impolite.

Australians usually say "excuse me" to get someone's attention and "sorry" when they accidentally bump into someone. Australians also say "excuse me" or "pardon me" when they burp or belch in public or in someone's home.

You should always try to be on time for meetings and other appointments. If you realise you are going to be late, try to contact the person to let them know. This is very important for professional appointments as you could be charged money for being late or if you miss the appointment without letting the person know in advance. A person who is always late may be considered to be unreliable.

If you receive a written invitation it may include the letters 'RSVP' with a date provided. This means that the person inviting you would like to know whether or not you will be attending. In such a case it is polite to reply by that date.

Most Australians blow their noses into handkerchiefs or tissues, not onto the pavement. This is also true for spitting. Many people will also say "bless you" when you sneeze – this phrase has no religious intent.

It is important to know that some behaviour is not only impolite but is also against the law. Examples include swearing in public, pushing in line, and urinating or defecating anywhere except in a public or private toilet.

Clothing

Australia is a diverse society. The variety of clothing which people wear reflects this diversity. Many people tend to dress casually or informally for comfort or according to the social situation or climate. Many people also choose to wear traditional clothes, which may be religious or customary, particularly on special occasions.

There are few laws or rules on clothing, although there are requirements to wear certain clothing for work situations and in certain premises. For example, safety boots and hard hats must be worn for safety reasons on construction sites, and police, military and staff of some businesses wear uniforms.

Clubs, movie theatres and other places may require patrons to be in neat, clean clothing and appropriate footwear.

You may find some clothing styles confronting or offensive. For example, some women wear clothes that reveal a lot of their body. You should not judge them by the standards of your previous country. In Australia, no matter what a woman's style of dress might be, you must not interpret it to mean they have low morals or that they wish to attract men's interest.

Common Australian expressions

Many common Australian expressions or slang may seem strange to people new to Australia. If you are unsure what an expression means, it is acceptable to ask. Some common examples are:

- Bring a plate – when you are invited to a social or work function and asked to "bring a plate", this means to bring a dish of food to share with other people.
- BYO – this means to 'Bring Your Own' drink which may include alcohol, juice, soft drink or water. Some restaurants are BYO. You can bring your own bottled wine, although there is usually a charge for providing and cleaning glasses, called 'corkage'.
- Fortnight – a 'fortnight' is a two-week period. Many Australians receive salary or wages every fortnight.

Housing

Renting a private house or flat

You can rent a house or flat through real estate agents that act on behalf of landlords or you can rent directly from a private landlord. Rental properties are advertised in newspapers especially on Wednesdays and Saturdays in the 'To let' and 'Accommodation vacant' sections. You can also go to real estate agent offices and ask to see their list of vacant rental properties.

In Australia, it is preferable to have a written agreement between a tenant and a landlord so any terms and conditions can be more easily identified. A 'lease' or a 'residential tenancy agreement' is a written contract made between a tenant and a landlord and will usually be for a fixed period of 6 or 12 months, however you are entitled to negotiate the time period of the lease with a landlord or their agent before you sign. You may be able to renew a lease at the end of a fixed term period.

There can be costs involved if you break a lease before the end of the agreed period, so do not commit yourself to a lease that is for longer than you are able to stay. Do not sign a lease unless you have inspected the property and fully understand the terms and conditions in the document, as it becomes legally binding after you sign it. For more information, see Tenants' rights and responsibilities below.

At the start of a tenancy you will generally be asked to pay one month rent in advance as well as a rental bond. A bond is a deposit paid to the landlord and generally should not be more than the monthly rental amount. The landlord or estate agent must lodge your bond with the Residential Tenancies Bond Authority.

Before you move in the condition of the property is recorded in a document called the 'condition report' and is completed by you and the landlord or their agent. This document can help avoid disagreements when you move out as it records any damage that was already there when you moved into the property. When you leave a rented house or flat you get the bond back if you do not owe any rent when you leave and the property is clean and without damage.

You may be eligible for some financial assistance to help meet the cost of paying the rental bond and the first month rent in advance. You may also be eligible for Rent Assistance which can help you meet your rental payments. Information about these payments is available from Centrelink.

Tenants' rights and responsibilities

You have legal rights and responsibilities as a tenant in Victoria. Landlords also have rights and responsibilities under a lease agreement. The estate agent or landlord must provide you a copy of a book called 'Renting a Home: A Guide for Tenants and Landlords' when you move into a new property. The book explains the law about renting in Victoria. The book also tells you where to get help if you don't understand the law. You can get the book in 7 languages. If the landlord or estate agent does not give you a copy of this book, you can get one from Consumer Affairs Victoria.

You should also get a copy of 'Renting a home in Victoria: A guide for newly arrived migrants and refugees - New County New Home' from Consumer Affairs. This book is especially for migrants and refugees and is available in English, Arabic, Cambodian, Persian, Chinese, Turkish, Vietnamese, Somali, Taringan, Oromo, Tamil, Amharic, Dari and Burmese.

Buying a house or flat

Houses or flats for sale are usually advertised in the newspaper and may also be advertised on the internet. Real estate agencies can also give you a list of properties they have for sale. If you are buying a home for the first time in Australia you may be eligible for an Australian Government 'First Home Owner Grant'.

If you need to borrow money to buy a property, contact your bank or other financial institution. In Australia, when buying a property, people usually use a solicitor or conveyancer to check the title deeds and organise the paperwork. Again, do not sign any contract unless you fully understand all of the terms and conditions.

Consumer Affairs Victoria distributes 'A guide for Buyers and Sellers' that you can get from the website. The Real Estate Institute of Victoria publishes a periodical with prices of properties sold in different suburbs entitled 'Property Update'. A cost applies.

If you are receiving a Centrelink payment or are on a low income you can apply to rent public housing. The waiting time for public housing varies according to where you want to live, your household size and the urgency of your housing need. For information about public housing, contact:

Essential household services

Whether you rent or buy, there are a number of household services that you may need to have connected to the property. Try to give the providers of these services a few days notice before you expect to move into a new property.

Before signing any contract for household services, you need to check that the service you are committing to is needed given your living arrangements. In some cases people have signed up to a 3 year contract for electricity supply, even though they were living in temporary housing. It is important to understand the terms and conditions of agreements with suppliers before making or signing any contracts for household services.

Employment

Looking for work

The daily newspapers advertise 'Job vacancies' (or 'Positions vacant'), especially on Saturdays. Job vacancies can also be found on the internet. There are also private employment agencies, which are listed in the Yellow Pages telephone directory and internet employment boards.

Any Australian resident can register with Centrelink for help in finding a job. Once you are registered you can be referred to Job Network which consists of private, community and government organisations, contracted to the Australian Government to help people find employment.

As a newcomer, it is often a good idea to talk to an experienced employment counsellor to ensure that your approach to job-seeking is appropriate, particularly if you are having difficulties getting an interview.

Working conditions (employer/employee rights)

The new federal workplace relations system will affect up to 85 per cent of employees. As an employee, you will need to find out whether the business you work for is covered - talk to your employer. For more information about minimum rates of pay and conditions under this system, visit the WorkChoices website or contact the Workplace Infoline.

For information on previous pay and conditions, visit the WageNet website.

Many jobs are covered by specific federal or state awards that outline the rights and obligations of employers and the employment conditions for employees (including the legally binding minimum wage rates) covered under an award.

Some workplaces and individuals are covered by an agreement that sets out wages and conditions of employment. Written contracts of employment can also set out wages and conditions for employees not covered by an award or agreement.

An Australian Workplace Agreement \(AWA\) is an individual agreement between an employer and an employee about the employee's wages and conditions of employment.

Superannuation

Superannuation is a specially designed long-term investment for your retirement. Superannuation is known as 'retirement savings' or 'pension income' around the world. Investing in superannuation while you are working is designed to help you build a nest-egg for your retirement. Nearly every employed person in Australia is a member of a superannuation fund.

Superannuation in Australia is commonly known as 'Super'.

In most cases, your employer is required by law to pay an amount equivalent to nine percent (9%) of your earnings into a superannuation fund of your choice. You can also contribute extra money into your Super. To find out if your employer is paying the right amount of money, you should check with the people who manage your superannuation fund. Taxation

A Tax File Number \(TFN\) is a unique number issued to individuals or organisations by the Australian Taxation Office (ATO) and is needed for all forms of receiving income. Apply for your TFN as a first priority. The fastest way for new settlers to obtain their TFN is through the internet. Online TFN registration is available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week and all that is required is your passport details and your Australian address. After about 10 days you should receive your new TFN in the mail. Application forms are available from Centrelink offices, by printing from the ATO website or by ringing the TFN Helpline. Processing time for the issue of the TFN is 28 days.

When you start work, your employer will ask you to complete a TFN Declaration form on which you need to write down your TFN. If you do not already have your TFN, the employer is not allowed to take out more than the normal amount of tax until the standard TFN processing time has elapsed.

If you earn any income in a financial year (between 1 July and 30 June), you must lodge an Income Tax Return by 31 October of that year, unless other arrangements have been made.

Australia has a Goods and Services Tax (GST) of 10 percent on most items. The GST is included in the price you are asked to pay. Some things such as basic food, most education and health services, eligible child care and nursing home care are GST-free.

If you operate a business you will need an Australian Business Number (ABN) for your dealings with the Australian Taxation Office and other businesses. For more information, contact the Australian Taxation Office.

Social security

The Australian Government contributes to social and economic outcomes by delivering services to assist people to become self-sufficient and supporting those in need. Social security is provided mainly through the government agency called Centrelink. The Family Assistance Office provides assistance to families.

You can find Centrelink office locations and Family Assistance Office locations in your local White Pages telephone directory.

Centrelink payments

Access to income support payments will depend on your visa class and your particular circumstances, including your income and assets. Even if you become a permanent resident of Australia, a waiting period for payments could apply (see below).

If you do not speak English, Centrelink can provide an interpreter for your appointment. You can contact Centrelink in your own language by telephone:

Centrelink (multilingual services)

13 1202

Centrelink website

www.centrelink.gov.au

You must also provide identification documents (passport and travel documents, bank account details and accommodation details) to Centrelink when applying for payments. More information on identification requirements is available on the above number or by downloading the fact sheet Proving your identity to Centrelink from the Centrelink website.

You must have a Tax File Number (TFN) in order to receive any income support payments. Centrelink can provide you with a TFN application form you can lodge with the Australian Taxation Office.

Waiting periods

Generally newly arrived migrants have to live in Australia as permanent residents for two years before they can get most social security payments, including unemployment and sickness benefits, student allowances and a number of other payments. Only periods spent in Australia as a permanent resident count towards the waiting period. To be eligible for age and disability pensions, you generally have to live in Australia for 10 years.

WAITING PERIOD EXEMPTIONS

Refugee and humanitarian entrants are exempt from the two-year waiting period. This also applies to their partners and dependent children if the relationship existed when the refugee or humanitarian entrant arrived in Australia.

Similarly, the partners and dependent children of Australian citizens and people who have been permanent residents for at least two years are exempt from the waiting period. There may also be other exemptions that apply.

Most payments are only available to people who live in Australia and have permission to remain permanently. A payment called Special Benefit may be available during the waiting period, if you are in hardship because of a substantial change of circumstances beyond your control. This payment is only available in very limited circumstances. Not being able to find a job or running out of money are not sufficient reasons to qualify for Special Benefit. If you have migrated with an Assurance of Support, your assurer will be responsible for repaying the amount that has been paid to you. Carer Payment may be available during the waiting period if you are providing constant care.

If you become widowed, disabled or a sole parent after becoming an Australian resident, you may be eligible for an allowance or pension. You may also be able to get a pension without having lived in Australia for 10 years if you are covered by an international social security agreement. As at May 2007, Australia has social security agreements with 18 countries.

Family Assistance payments

If you have dependent children, the Australian Government offers a range of payments through the Family Assistance Office to support families with their work and family responsibilities. The main Family Assistance payments include Family Tax Benefit, Child Care Benefit, Maternity Payment and Maternity Immunisation Allowance.

Generally, you must hold a permanent visa in order to be eligible but there are some exceptions. There is no waiting period for these payments. It is important to understand that Family Assistance payments are intended only as income supplements, and are not enough to live on. Family Assistance payments are subject to an income test.

Family Assistance Offices are located in Centrelink, Medicare and Australian Taxation Offices. For more information on Family Assistance payments or advice on what you may be eligible to claim, contact the Family Assistance Office.

Transport

Public transport

Victoria's public transport system consists of trains, trams, buses and ferries. There is a range of fares and types of tickets. All forms of transport on the metropolitan system accept prepaid tickets, but only certain forms of transport allow you to buy your ticket on board (ie. buses and trams – coin only). Train passengers must buy a ticket before boarding the train. It is useful to remember that some tickets, (such as 'all-day' or '2-hour' tickets) allow the passenger to change to other modes of transport using the same ticket. There are also concessions available for students and health care card holders. For information about public transport in Victoria including ticketing, timetables and concessions, contact:

Metlink 13 1638
(public transport in Melbourne)

Vline 13 6196
(country and interstate transport services)

Timetables for buses can often be provided by the driver on request, or by telephoning the bus company. Bus companies are listed in the Yellow Pages telephone directory under 'Bus and coach scheduled services'.

TAXIS

Taxis operate 24 hours a day in most parts of Australia. A meter on the dashboard of the taxi shows the fare. Taxi companies are listed in the Yellow Pages telephone directory under 'Taxi cabs'. Most cities have special taxis available for people using a wheelchair.

Private vehicles

New and second-hand vehicles are advertised for sale in newspapers and magazines and are also available from new car showrooms and second-hand car yards. The purchase price of a car does not usually include the cost of registration, stamp duty and compulsory insurance. These costs usually have to be paid separately by the buyer.

To check if the former owner owes money on a vehicle that has been registered in any state or territory, except Western Australia and Tasmania, contact:

Registrar of Encumbered Vehicles
Enquiries (for the cost of a local call) 133220

www.revs.nsw.gov.au

For information about borrowing money to purchase a vehicle, contact your bank or a finance company. Remember to make sure you understand all terms and conditions before you sign any contracts for finance.

In every state and territory there are motorists' associations, which provide services such as vehicle inspections for potential buyers of second hand vehicles, touring information, insurance, and road service (in case your vehicle breaks down). Many of their services are available to non-members as well as members, and extend to cover members through sister organisations in other states and territories.

In Victoria you can contact:

Once you own a car, you must register it into your name with VicRoads within 14 days from the date of purchase. It is illegal to drive the car until it has been registered. Registering your car also includes the payment of the compulsory Transport Accident Commission (TAC) insurance premium. TAC both insures against the medical costs of road accidents and works to promote road safety in Victoria.

10 Education and child care

Child care

There are many types of full-time and part-time child care services available for children too young to go to school and for outside of school hours. You will find a range of child care options in the Yellow Pages telephone directory, including preschools or kindergartens, which prepare children for school, child care or daycare centres, which look after younger children, and family daycare where children are looked after by another parent along with their own family.

There are also playgroups, where parents and their children get together for the children to learn to interact together and for the parents to chat and share information.

While you are attending Adult Migrant English Programme (AMEP) classes, you may be eligible for free child care for your under-school-age children. If you progress to a different study programme after completing your AMEP entitlement it is important to review child care payment arrangements as other programmes do not cover these costs.

It is compulsory for children between 6 and 15 years old to go to school. Children usually start school when they are 4 or 5 and often continue until they are 17 or 18 years old, in preparation for university or other further education. Generally, children under 12 or 13 years old attend primary school and older children go to high school (or 'secondary school'). It is your responsibility to ensure your child eats breakfast before leaving for school and that your child has food with them for their midday meal or money to buy lunch from the school canteen.

You can send your children to either a government or a non-government school. To find schools in your area, look under 'Schools' in the White Pages telephone directory, or visit the websites www.education.vic.gov.au or www.eduweb.vic.gov.au/schoolsonline

Government schools provide free education, however, most schools ask for a voluntary contribution to enhance the school's educational and sporting programmes. Payment is a matter for decision by parents. There are additional educational materials or services that parents can be expected to provide or pay the school to provide. Parents may need to provide their children with pencils, pens, textbooks and school uniforms (where appropriate). Note: Students holding temporary visas may be required to pay full school fees. Check with individual schools for details.

Non-government schools charge fees, and they may have a religious affiliation or a particular educational philosophy. Parents who want to find out about private education should make an appointment with the relevant non-government educational authority or contact the selected school directly.

Ask at your school about before and after school care or school holiday programmes for school-age children.

Non-English speaking children

Newly arrived children who don't speak English can enrol in English Language Schools (ELS) and centres (ELC) which provide intensive English programs designed for children. For more information on English language programs for school children, visit the website www.sofweb.vic.edu.au/lem/esl/enuw.htm, ask at your local school, or contact:

Interpreters

Parents and carers who speak limited or no English can ask the school for an interpreter to be present when discussing matters involving their children. They can also ring the Translating and Interpreting Service (TIS) to contact the school.

Enrolment

To enrol your child in a school, contact the school by telephone or in person. You will need to take your visa or entry to Australia documents, proof of your child's date of birth, and any papers including school reports relating to their previous education.

You should take any immunisation documents to the local council (see Chapter 14, Local Government) to obtain a consolidated Immunisation Certificate. Present this certificate to the school at enrolment. Schools do not accept individual immunisation documents and will insist on the Immunisation Certificate from the council. For more information about immunisation, please also see Chapter 11, The Health System.

technology, business services, arts and media, tourism and hospitality, construction and transport, rural and mining manufacturing, and engineering. VET and TAFE colleges charge fees and students usually need to buy their own books. Students must complete secondary school to qualify for some courses.

For more information about these financial support schemes, contact Centrelink (see Chapter 8, Social security).

11 The health system

Medicare

The Australian Government provides help with medical expenses and hospital care through a scheme called Medicare. Medicare pays for most of the costs of visits to the doctor, x-rays, blood tests, public hospital care, and certain other services.

To find out if you are eligible and to enrol in Medicare, you should go to a Medicare office with your passport, travel documents and permanent visa.

Medicare does not pay towards ambulance costs, dental services, physiotherapy, spectacles, podiatry, chiropractic services, or private hospital accommodation. For more information about Medicare, see Chapter 1, What to do soon after arrival.

Medicare website

www.medicareaustralia.gov.au

Centrelink Health Care Card

If you receive a Centrelink payment or earn a low income, you may be eligible for a government Health Care Card. The card will entitle you to a range of concessions, including the cost of medicines and the health services: doctor, dentist and ambulance. For more information on Centrelink, see Chapter 8, Social security.

Even if you have a Health Care Card, you will still need to present your Medicare card for all basic hospital and medical treatment in conjunction with your Health Care Card.

Private health insurance

Many Australians belong to private health insurance funds. They cover you for treatment as a private patient in private or public hospitals, and can include some services that Medicare does not cover, such as dental and optical services. The costs and types of cover vary widely, so if you decide to get private health insurance, it is important to check the details carefully before you buy the policy.

INCENTIVES

The government has introduced financial incentives aimed at encouraging people to take out private health insurance. There is a Commonwealth Government 30 percent rebate on private health insurance premiums (and higher rebates for people aged 65 years and over), and a 1 per cent tax levy on people who earn more than $50 000 a year and who don't take out private health insurance. A person must be eligible for Medicare to receive the 30 percent rebate on private health insurance.

LIFETIME HEALTH COVER

There is also a system called Lifetime Health Cover, under which the cost of private health insurance differs depending on the age at which people first take out hospital cover. People who take out hospital cover by 1 July following their 31st birthday and maintain their membership will pay lower amounts throughout their lifetime, compared to people who take out hospital cover when they are older.

If you delay taking out hospital cover, you will pay an extra 2 percent loading for each year you delay joining after the age of 30, up to a maximum loading of 70 percent that will apply to someone who first takes out hospital cover at 65 years of age or older.

Special conditions apply for new migrants. Generally, migrants do not pay a loading if they purchase hospital cover by either (whichever is the later):

- the 1st July following their 31st birthday; or
- the first anniversary of the day they became eligible for Medicare.

After these dates, normal Lifetime Health Cover loadings apply.

Medical assistance

EMERGENCIES

Emergency treatment can be obtained through some medical centres or the emergency departments of hospitals. Public and private hospitals are listed under 'Hospitals' in the White Pages telephone directory. Information about ambulances is given in Chapter 3, Emergency services.

When you go to hospital, remember to take with you any medicines you are using and also your Medicare card, private health insurance membership card, Health Benefits or Pension Concession Card.

Emergency treatment is available on a 24 hour basis at the 'Casualty' or 'Emergency' departments of public hospitals.

If the situation is not an emergency you should seek medical assistance from a general practitioner.

GENERAL PRACTITIONERS (GPs)

If it is not an emergency, you should go first to a family doctor (also called a 'general practitioner' or GP) or a medical centre. You can choose which doctor or medical centre you attend – they are listed in the Yellow Pages telephone directory under 'Medical practitioners'.

Your doctor may bulk bill. This means you will be asked to sign a Medicare form, and the doctor sends this form to Medicare, which then pays the doctor. Otherwise the doctor will charge you, and you may be able to claim the cost back from Medicare or your private health insurance fund (if you are eligible). In either case, you must bring your Medicare card (and Health Care Card if you have one).

INTERPRETING

Doctors may access a priority telephone line to have an interpreter for the duration of your medical consultation. This is done at no cost to you or your doctor, provided you are a permanent resident or an Australian citizen and when the medical consultation is covered by Medicare.

SPECIALISTS

You cannot visit a medical specialist without seeing a GP first. The doctor may refer you to a medical or other specialist for further treatment.

MEDICINES

If your doctor believes you need medicines, you may be given a prescription to take to a chemist shop (or pharmacy). Many medicines, such as antibiotics, are only available with a prescription. If you have a Health Care Card or Pension Concession Card provided by Centrelink you will be eligible for a concession on certain medicines. You must also bring your Medicare card when collecting your medicines from the chemist shop.

It is important to read labels and instructions on medicines carefully and ask questions if unclear. For help or information about medicines, speak to a pharmacist or telephone:

Services for people from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds

Many hospitals and large health centres have teams of health professionals who supply services for local migrant communities. These services include counselling, advice, referral and health information. Ring your local hospital or Community Health Centre to see if there is a Multicultural Health Worker for your language group.

Immunisation

Immunisation protects children (and adults) against harmful infections. Immunisation is not compulsory but is recommended for all children. Some states and territories (NSW, VIC, TAS and the ACT) require a record of a child's immunisations to be presented when the child attends day care or starts school. This is so the child care centre or school knows which children have not been immunised. Immunisations can be obtained from your family doctor or your Community Health Centre.

If you wish to obtain the immunisations from your Community Health Centre or local council, you will need to contact them to find out which immunisations are available and when they are available.

If your children are not immunised, you may not be eligible for child care payments.

Dental services

Good oral health is important for general health and wellbeing. Dental care is provided mainly through private dentists. Public dental services are available to people with Centrelink concession cards and all primary school children.

PUBLIC DENTAL SERVICES

Public dental clinics are located throughout Victoria. A small fee or copayment applies to eligible groups requiring public dental services. Children under 18 years of age who are concession card holders or dependants of concession card holders receive public dental care free of charge.

Most public dental services have long waiting times. If emergency care is required, the person will generally be assessed within 24 hours of making contact with the nearest clinic. Accessing aged care

Residential aged care is for older people who can no longer live at home for various reasons, such as illness, disability, bereavement, an emergency, the needs of their carer, family or friends, or just because it is harder to manage at home without help. Those who need less care than that offered by aged care homes may wish to consider independent living units or retirement villages.

Aged Care Assessment Teams (ACATs) advise on what type of Australian Government funded services you need to help you continue living in your home or whether you should enter an aged care home.

There are 5 steps to follow when you want to move into an aged care home. They are:

- Assessing your eligibility
- Finding a home
- Working out the cost
- Applying
- Moving and settling in.

12 Recreation and media

Outdoor activities

Australia is well suited to activities with an outdoor focus, like travelling, bushwalking, camping and sport. There are a few safety rules to remember when outdoors:

- At the beach only swim in areas patrolled by lifesavers. Always swim between the flags. Not all beaches are patrolled by lifesavers.
- Avoid swimming and fishing alone.
- Wear hats or caps on sunny days to avoid sunburn and skin cancer. This is especially important for young children and many schools will insist on sunhats being worn throughout the summer months.
- Wear protective sunscreen. This can be purchased from a chemist or supermarket.
- Open fires and barbeques are not permitted on total fire ban days. For information on total fire ban days contact:

Citizenship

The requirements for Australian citizenship include living in Australia for a specified period of time and being of good character. For more information go to:

Citizenship Information Line (in Australia) 131 880
Citizenship website www.citizenship.gov.au/

After you become an Australian citizen, you may apply for an Australian passport. If you continue to hold the citizenship of another country as well as your Australian citizenship, you should travel in and out of Australia using your Australian passport.

For Australian citizens it is compulsory to enrol to vote if you are 18 years of age or older. There is the opportunity to enrol at your Australian citizenship ceremony. You can also enrol at 17 years of age to be ready to vote once you turn 18.

Enrolment forms are available at post offices, Australian Electoral Commission (AEC) offices and the AEC website. Completing one form will enrol you for federal elections, state/territory elections and most local government elections. Every time you move address you must complete a new enrolment form. More information is available at the website (including in languages other than English) or call the AEC if you have any questions.

Resident Return Visas

If you are an Australian permanent resident planning to leave Australia for any temporary period and wish to return to Australia, you may need a Resident Return Visa. Contact DIAC to find out whether you will need a visa to return to Australia.

Family visits to Australia

TO VISIT

Visitors need to apply for a visa which covers the full period of their stay in Australia. Each type of visitor's visa has special conditions attached, so contact the nearest Australian Overseas Immigration Office (see below) for more information.

The Electronic Travel Authority (ETA) system is available to passport holders from more than 30 countries through authorised travel agencies and airlines, and from most Australian diplomatic offices. ETAs enable many short-term visitors to Australia to obtain authority to travel to Australia at the same time as they book their travel arrangements. For ETAs, there is no need for the traveller to complete an application form for a visa. More information is available at www.eta.immi.gov.au/

TO MIGRATE

There are three main parts to Australia's migration programme:

- Family migration. The applicant must have a relative in Australia to sponsor them.
- Skilled migration. The applicant must have skills or special abilities which will contribute to the economy or other areas of Australian life.
- Refugee, Humanitarian, Special Humanitarian and Special Assistance programmes.

There are strict requirements in each migration category, which your relatives must meet to migrate. Migration regulations are complex and change often, so it is best to contact DIAC for information on your individual situation. For more information see:

Local government and community services

Australia has three spheres of government: commonwealth, state or territory, and local. Your local council looks after the area you live in and provides many important services available to all people in the local community. Councils are funded largely by the rates paid by local property owners. You do not have to own a property to access these services.

Community services

Local councils often provide public halls for community groups to use, sporting, recreational and cultural facilities. Councils can also provide a wide range of support services such as child health centres, child care centres, youth workers, and aged care and disability services.

Local councils can provide scheduled immunisations for children free of charge. Your local council can tell you which immunisations are available and when they are available. Your local council will also issue an 'Immunisation Certificate', which is an official summary of any immunisation documents you may have. The 'Immunisation Certificate' must be presented to your child's school upon (or shortly after) enrolment.

Multicultural services

Many local councils have multicultural or community workers who can give you valuable help and advice as you settle into life in Australia. Some have services designed to meet the particular needs of senior citizens from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds.

Libraries

Most areas have public libraries which people can join to borrow books free of charge. Libraries also have or can order books in languages other than English. In most libraries you can access the internet.

Other services

Councils maintain the local roads, provide public toilets, and make sure shops and restaurants meet proper health standards. They control building developments, and if you want to make changes to your real estate property, you must check with your local council that you have approval.

Councils are responsible for garbage collection and recycling. Check with the council or your neighbours to find out about collection times.

Many councils produce 'Council Information Booklets' or 'New Residents Kits' providing a great range of information on local services and facilities (including garbage collection times). These can either be posted to you or collected from the council offices.
